Newly-Crowned GNAC Champs Return Home No. 3 SPU Remains Unbeaten, Eyes No. 1 Seed

Streking home. With another Great Northwest Athletic Conference title in hand, the No. 3-ranked Seattle Pacific University women's basketball team returns to Brougham Pavilion to play its final two home regular season games. The Falcons (15-0, 24-0), the lone remaining unbeaten team in NCAA Division II, winners of their last 39 GNAC games and 57 in a row during regular season play, welcome Saint Martin's (9-5, 12-10) Thursday night (Feb. 26), then play host to Northwest Nazarene (8-6, 13-10) Saturday (Feb. 28) on Senior Night. The final conference game is Mar. 6 at Central Washington.

Champs again. After beating Western Oregon, the Falcons knew they could clinch at least a share of the GNAC championship by winning at Humboldt State. They did just that, and to top it off, second-place Western Washington lost later that night giving Seattle Pacific the title outright, the team's second in as many years. The Falcons earn the conference's automatic berth in next month's NCAA Division II tournament. They now seek to nail-down the No. 1 seed in the West Region and, with it, the right to host that tournament for the second year in a row. SPU has held the top spot in the regional rankings throughout the season. It could move up in tomorrow's (Feb. 24) NCAA rankings following the first loss of the season by California (Pa.). Last week only one point separated the Falcons and No. 2 Drury (Mo.).

Senior salute. Prior to Saturday's game, the program will honor seniors Valerie Gustafson (Sr., 6-0, Olympia, Wa./Black Hills) and Kristin Poe (Sr., 5-8, Enumclaw, Wa.), who have played on three conference championship teams in the last four years. Gustafson is currently leading SPU in scoring (14.9 ppg), shooting (.568 FG%) and steals (1.9 spg). Earlier this season, she passed the 1,000-point and 500-rebound plateau for her career. Gustafson is No. 3 on SPU's career field-goal percentage list and is on pace to have another top-five season field goal percentage finish. Going into this week's games, she needs 42 points to move into SPU's No. 10 career scoring spot. Already a two-time academic all-conference selection, Gustafson was recently named to the CoSIDA College Division Academic All-District 8 second team.

Senior salute II. Kristin Poe's five-year career has been marked by multiple knee injuries, but that hasn't hampered her hustle and all-out effort each time she steps on the floor. Poe is SPU's No. 2 rebounder (6.6 rpg) this season and is currently No. 6 on the career list. She is also tied at No. 2 on the single game rebounding chart after pulling down 22 boards against Saint Martin's in her sophomore year, the same season she was named to the all-conference second-team. Going into this week's games, Poe needs just four steals to move into No. 5 on SPU's career list. An emotional leader, she has been named most inspirational by her teammates for three years running.

SPU's sparkplug. Despite not starting a single game this season, guard Mandy Wood (So., 5-7, Port Angeles, Wa.) is playing like a starter. It's obvious coach Gordy Presnell likes the spark Wood brings off the bench, and she did it again at Western Oregon last week. With SPU trailing in the first half against the Wolves, Presnell inserted Wood, who promptly hit three treys, including one that put the Falcons up 31-18 at halftime. Western Oregon was within 48-38 with nine minutes left until Wood hit back-to-back baskets, including another three, as the Falcons pulled away for the win. Wood finished 6-for-10 from the
