Faculty In-Service on Monday

Undergraduate Faculty: What do we know about SPU students based on the information we receive from that alphabet soup of national surveys that our students take? How can we use that information to improve our students' learning? How do your personal expectations for your students compare with your colleagues' expectations? How do your expectations compare with students' perceptions of what happens in their classes? Let's have a conversation at the Faculty In-Service, Monday, from 9 until noon, Upper Gwinn.

Graduate Faculty: Who are our graduate students? What kinds of needs for services do they have? Given the wide variety of kinds of graduate programs that we offer, can we identify some common concerns across programs? Join other colleagues in a round-table discussion facilitated by Professor Cher Edwards, GPEC Chair, on Monday, from 9 until noon, Library Seminar Room.

Faculty who teach both undergraduates and graduates can choose which session they would like to attend. We will then all gather in Upper Gwinn at noon for the annual faculty lunch sponsored by Faculty Council. Don't miss the announcement of next year's Weter Lecturer!

Last Chance to Register for June Theology Mini-Courses

Contact Becky Crook (bcrook@spu.edu) to register. Each course will take place from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. All reading material, coffee and lunch, and a $100 stipend per day will be provided. Take all three courses, and receive a $500 stipend. You can mix and match June and September dates if that is more convenient. Registration deadlines: June 5 (for June Courses), August 7 (for September courses). Priority registration to full-time faculty, but adjuncts are welcome to register to attend if space allows.
