

Seattle Pacific University

Theatre Artists Forum

Join us for SPU's Theatre Artists Series. A wide-ranging talk with guest artists about their craft, their influences and their work. The series offers a glimpse into the creative process of all aspects of Theatre from actors to designers to the marketing and fundraising folks. Join us for what promises to be an illuminating and entertaining look at life as a Theatre Artist.

Next Up - April 15

Gene Tagaban

Gene Tagaban, an accomplished and gifted storyteller, actor, dancer, musician, trainer and speaker. His heritage is Cherokee, Tlingit and Filipino. Raised in Alaska, Gene's Native American name Gaay Yaaw loosely translates as "Salmon Home Coming." He is of the Tak`deintaan Raven Freshwater Sockeye clan of Hoonah, Alaska, and the Child of a Wooshkeetaan Eagle Thunderbird clan of Juneau, Alaska. Gene has fifteen years experience as a trainer, counselor, motivator and speaker. Gene has uniquely integrated his interpersonal skills, Native American heritage and performance artistry with traditional training and counseling techniques to develop inspirational and results-oriented performances; presentations and personal growth work with youth, adolescents and adults. Gene has worked with schools, universities, reservations, corporations, government and mainstream organizations.

Tuesday, April 15, 1pm
E.E. Bach Theatre, James L. Chapman Stage

For more information or questions please contact
Theatre Chair Don Yanik at 206.281.2145 or zeke@spu.edu